Hyaluronic acid fillers

Hyaluronic acid forms a part of the natural extracellular matrix which is found in high amounts in several connective tissues including the skin, the vitreous humor of the eye and the synovial fluid. Chemically, HA is a linear polysaccharide composed of repeating disaccharide units of glucuronic acid and N-acetylglucosamine. HA is considered to be the most popular dermal filler to replace volume loss due to normal aging for several reasons including: its hygroscopic property, biocompatibility and reversibility. Over the past several decades, various forms of HA fillers have been developed and they differ in many aspects including: the type and degree of crosslinking, gel viscosity, gel hardness, gel consistency, extrusion force, total HA concentration and duration of presence in the skin.

Used For?

Hyaluronic acid fillers are quite versatile and can be effectively used to achieve different goals in various areas of the face and body.

One well-known application is adding volume to the cheek and lips for greater fullness; fillers can also contour and define the jawline.

These fillers can fill in and smooth wrinkles and lines in the face, including frown lines, deep forehead lines, smile lines, crow's feet around the eyes, nasolabial folds and in the chin, lips, nose area.

Some fillers can also address loss of anti-wrinkles in the earlobes, and volume loss in the back of the hands. Lastly, they can fill in depressed scars and depressions in the skin under the eyes and in the cheeks. Lyft can last between 6 and 9 months, and sometimes up to a year. Natural items, some of the deepest facial folds, including furrows and skin lines, and deeper lines around the nose and mouth area. It can be used also for filling. As you age, what were once subtle lines and wrinkles around the nose and mouth have started to deepen. Cheeks that used to appear full and taut suddenly seem to sag and droop. While aging, an amazing product may change the facial contour of the patient. It works great on the eyebrow area, as well as the cheeks, and it can do wonders when it comes to lip enhancement.
