How Sculptra Aesthetic Is Used For Facial Rejuvenation

The procedure is done in the office setting. hape without any distortion.

How Does Sculptra Work?

Sculptra is a different type of injectable than what most people are used to.

How Long Do Sculptra Results Last?

The duration of Sculptra results varies for each individual. Typically, you can expect the final results to last around two years. However, with proper overall health and skincare, the results can extend up to five years, and in some cases, even seven years.

Several factors influence the longevity of the treatment results, such as age, dosage, injection location, specific cosmetic concerns, the severity of the conditions being treated, and the health of your skin. Let's delve deeper into the estimated duration of results for different targeted areas.

The Temples

When using Sculptra to restore volume to sunken temples, the final results generally last approximately two years. While this is shorter compared to non-invasive cheek augmentation, it surpasses the duration of hyaluronic acid-based fillers used for temple restoration, which typically last between six to 18 months.

The Cheeks

Originally designed for non-invasive cheek augmentation, Sculptra can restore cheek volume in individuals who have experienced rapid weight loss due to severe illness. Results from injections in and around the cheeks can last up to seven years, with an average duration of around five or five-and-a-half years.

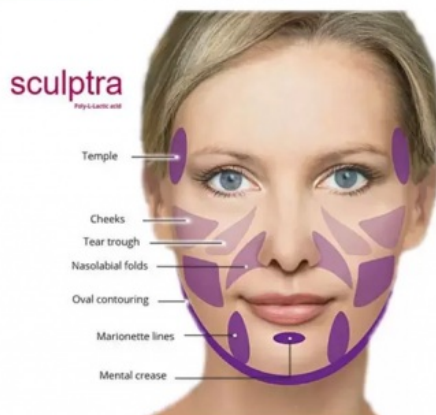

Moreover, besides adding volume to hollow cheeks, Sculptra stimulates collagen production, which can lift sagging cheek skin. If you have concerns about your cheeks, cheekbones, or the skin around them, you may be an excellent candidate for this treatment.

The Jawline

Poly-L lactic acid injections are commonly used to treat the jawline, whether to lift sagging skin and enhance jawline prominence or to eliminate wrinkles around the chin. The expected duration of improvement in this area is approximately five years. However, if combined with cheek targeting, the results may last up to seven years, as the volume addition to the cheeks naturally lifts the skin around the jaw.

The Chest

The chest area often shows early signs of aging, with skin wrinkling as early as the 30s. This is especially prevalent in individuals who frequently used tanning beds or had prolonged sun exposure without adequate sun protection. Sculptra injections in the décolleté region typically offer results lasting two to five years. By maintaining good skin health, you can expect the treatment to provide closer to five years of improvement.
