Product Description

Hutox is a type A botulinum toxin for injection, used in medicine and cosmetology. One of its goals is to remove wrinkles, but it is also useful, for example, in the case of muscle spasticity. This product is very similar to Botox (Botox allergan) and can be injected into the face or body.

Very high purity

One of the interesting aspects of this neurotoxic Botox-like product is its 99% purity. Huons achieved these results with next-generation manufacturing technology.

As a cosmetic product

In many cases, invasive plastic surgery can be avoided thanks to botulinum toxin, which, thanks to its natural properties neutralizing contractions of the treated muscles, allows you to remove medium wrinkles and even serious expression lines. The treatment itself is highly localized and allows you to focus on problem areas that show signs of aging on the face. Treatment with injected botulinum toxin takes about 10-20 minutes.

As a medical product

In addition to being an anti-aging product, Hutox is used by doctors for problems such as spasticity in the muscles of the legs or arms, and even for patients with hand deformities.

Injection areas:

-Smoothing of the forehead

-Orbital area
