Product Description

Cryotherapy Cool Tech Weight Loss Fat Removal Skin Freezing Machine for Body Sculpting Slimming

Frozen Slimming Machine Theory

Frozen slimming machine is non-invasive fat removal procedure.

It is the cooling of subcutaneous fat cells, which induces lipolysis and the breaking down of the fat cells without damaging any of the surrounding tissues or skin.

Frozen slimming machine works to reduce fat in specific areas of body and is most commonly used on stomach and back.

Features

The current non-surgical medical cosmetic technologies and new hot spot.

More advanced than liposuction, fat melting technology

Europe's most popular new way to lose weight

Can be up to 26% of the treatment area of new technology to destroy fat

Superior RF and ultrasound fat melting technology

Selectivity can be cut a fat waist, back fat and cellulite micro innovation

What happens to the fat cells?

During the procedure, exposure to cooling causes fat cell apoptosis, which leads to the release of fat layer. The fat cells in the treated area are gently eliminated through the body's normal metabolism process, much like fat from food.

What will happen after the treatment?

The Cryotherapy procedure is non-invasive. Most patients typically resume their routine activities, including returning to work and exercise regimens on the same day as the procedure. Transient local redness, bruising and numbness of the skin are common side effects of the treatment and expected to subside in couple of hours. Typically sensory deficits will subside within 1~8 weeks.

Will treating the distance be painful?

With this non-invasive procedure, there is no need for anesthesia or pain medications, and no recovery time. The procedure is comfortable for most patients can read, work on their laptop computer, listen to music or just relax.

How long the effect will last?

Patients experiencing fat layer reduction show persistent results at least 1 year after the procedure. The fat cells in the treated area are gently eliminated through the body's normal metabolism process. The elimination of fat cells as a result of the procedure is expected to last as long as fat cells removed by invasive procedures such as liposuction.

How do the results compare with other procedures such as liposuction?

liposuction benefit: The results of the liposuction procedure are very rapid and dramatic. Side effect: pain, fatal risk, recovery time even body asymmetry will occur during surgical procedures.

RF thermal therapy or ultrasound benefit: can treat deep fat. Side effect: it may hurt the surrounding cells or cause pain.
